moments, movements, meetings are behind us now
and things that happened through the year
don't seem quite so important as we stop to look at W-L in retrospect,

we also direct ourselves beyond . . .
because each person here is moving,
flying toward a tomorrow and a dream.

every movement alters the pattern.
from such change evolves tradition,
and from tradition, change.

JOINT HIGHWAY PLANNING
A vital part of comprehensive area city development for efficiency

A vital part of comprehensive community development for achieving community goals. Many professionals are involved together in making a highway which harmonizes with its environment and fits into the city fabric.

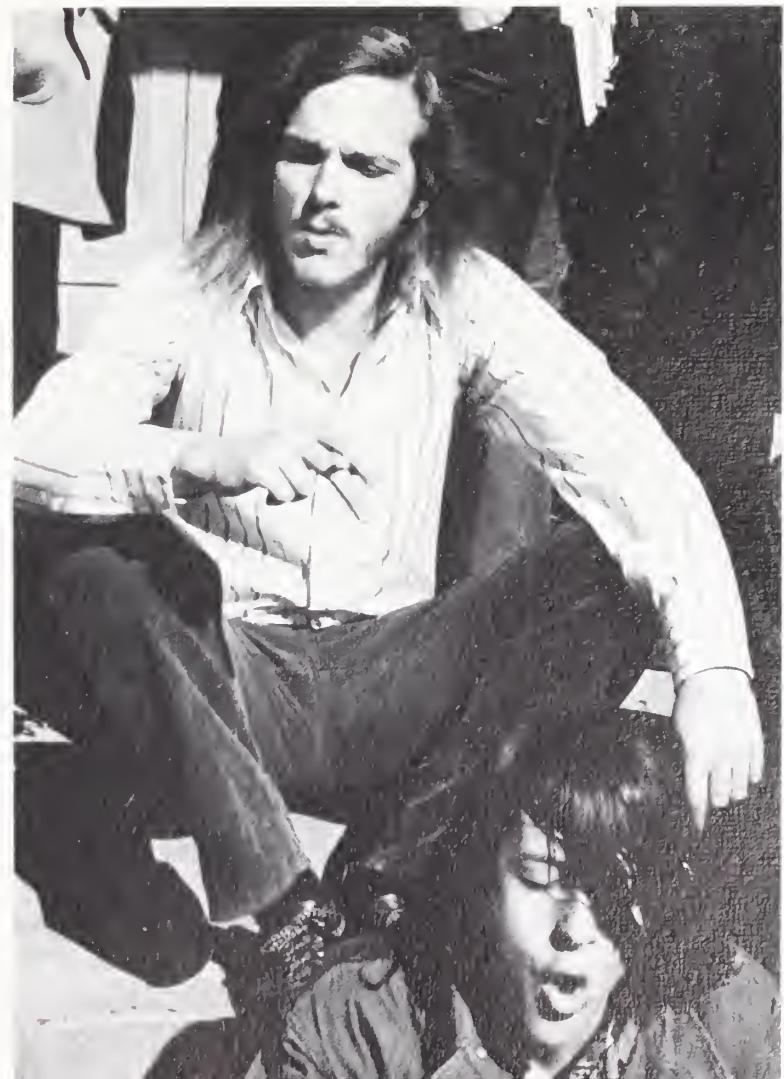

The highway department cooperates with the community, businesses and citizens to use land more economically by creating joint development in the highway corridor.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
Federal Highway Administration

The Woodlawn project, the fight for a cleaner environment, and a resumed interest in students' rights were some of the components of Washington-Lee 1972.

The ideal of student unification must first be reached through self-identification, realizing our goals and striving for the values we wish to possess; this is the learning process. Each individual, finding his interests and expanding his spectrum, contributes to the experience of the entire student body.

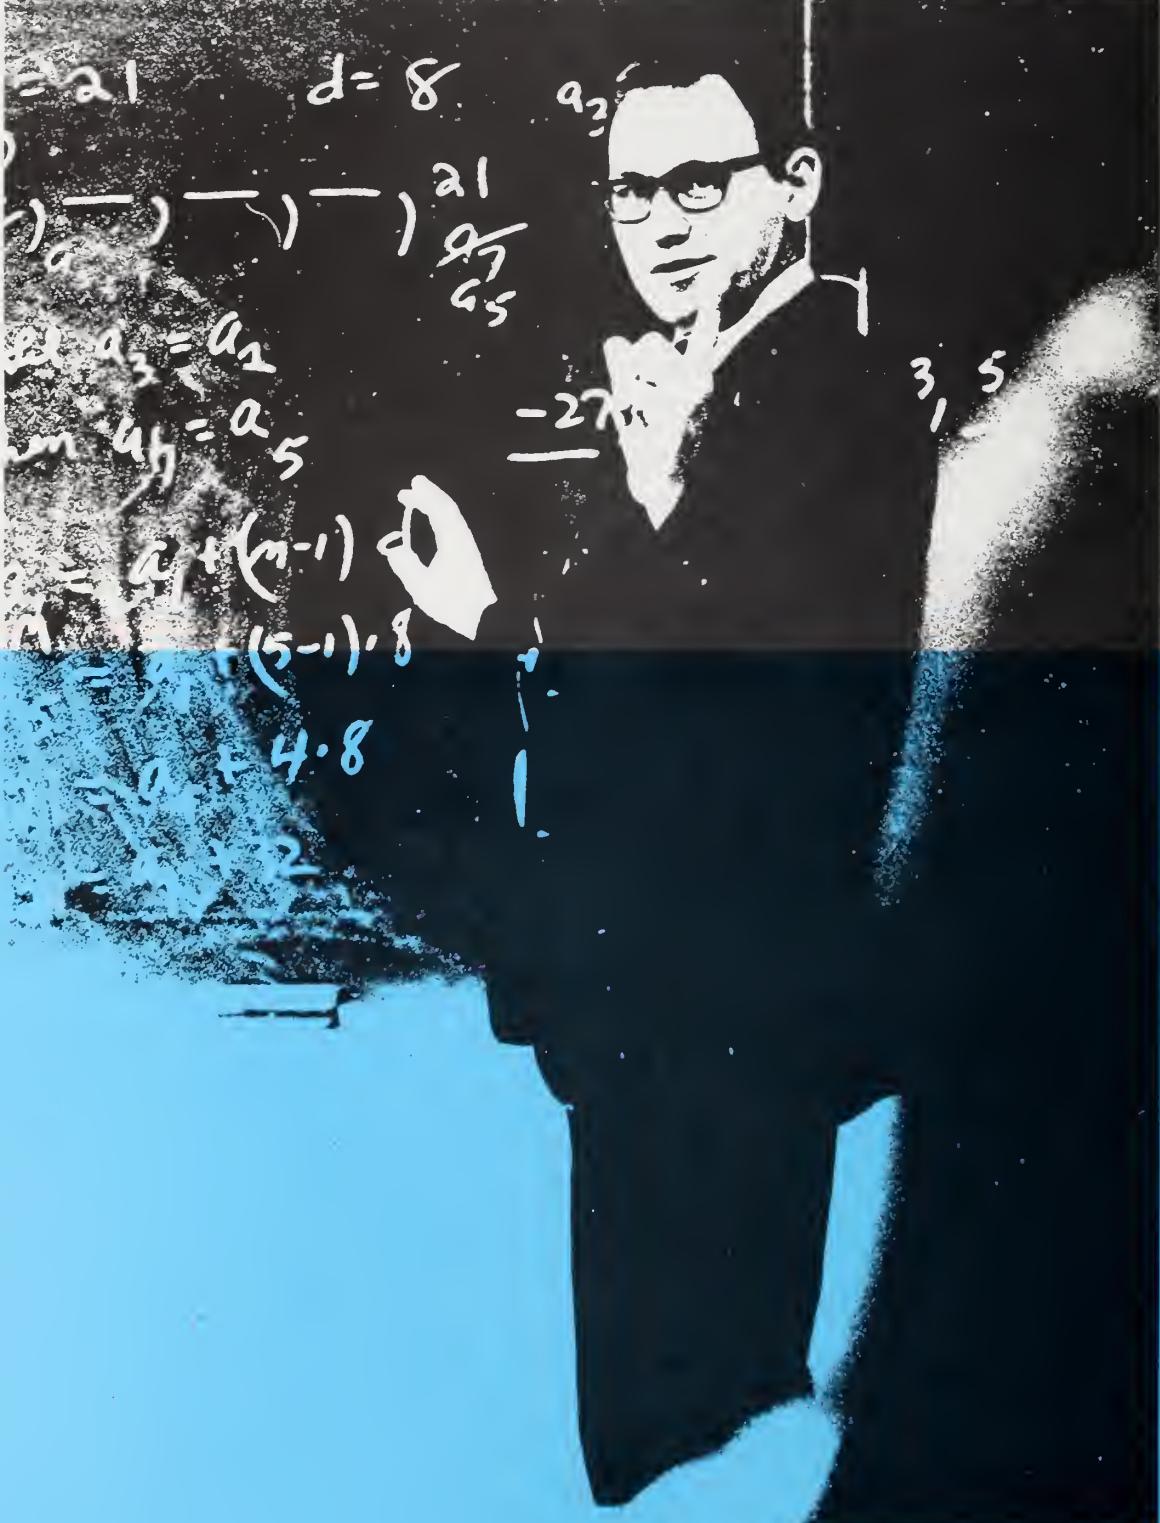

thinking . . . feeling . . . moving . . . changing . . . new directions . . . when the end of school rolls around it's always a nice feeling, mainly because it's the end of studying, tests, and homework. But all the hours we spent within those ageless brick walls weren't for nothing; our experiences, some valuable, some not so valuable, will endure to remind us of the times we had.

Mr. Book and Dan Porter discuss a critical point.

An experiment in education began last September as about 170 determined and enthusiastic students joined in the Woodlawn Program or the New School, as it was called. Home for the program was the no longer needed Woodlawn Elementary School building. The students, coming from Wakefield, W-L, and Yorktown, participated in a progressive year, doing independent study projects of their choice. Working on an Arlington newspaper, taking art or acting classes, and training as volunteer court aides were some of the outside activities which provided course credit. Of course, students also took the required English, social studies, and math courses. For some subjects, they returned to their original schools. Both faculty and students at Woodlawn seemed to enjoy the program and its atmosphere, describing it as more free and more relaxed than a traditional one. They expressed hope that the Woodlawn Program will continue.

Julie Bunnell, from W-L, talks to a friend in the hall.

woodlawn program

crossed sabres

Hours of planning, writing, editing, making up pages, and proofreading filled the days of the ten volunteer writers and sponsor of the Crossed Sabres staff. Under the leadership of Editor Sharon Trainor, they tried to present all aspects of school life, along with important outside issues, in the monthly editions. Aided sometimes by the journalism class, the staff often found it hard to cover all the news. Hopefully, they provided both interest and enjoyment for the school, while also learning and practicing elements of journalism.

The yearbook you hold was made possible through the diligence, patience, and endurance of the people pictured on these pages. Each person did his best to do the job he was assigned. When someone needed help, everyone pitched in — whether it meant writing captions, providing food for night sessions, or just breaking the tension with a stupid joke. We on the staff hope you enjoy this representation of the 1971-72 school year. Ideally, the purpose of a yearbook is to provide a glimpse of the happenings through a year, and renew some of your feelings. The yearbook staff hopes it will be instrumental in bringing back memories of your experiences here, precious or otherwise.

madrigal singers

The Madrigal Singers this year continued the tradition of dedication and hard work of past groups. From the hour rehearsals each morning before school to the many luncheons, dinners, concerts and assemblies, the Madrigals had a long and hard, but satisfying, schedule. They are all grateful for the privilege of being the 1971-72 Madrigal Singers.

football band

The Football Band was a major part of the football season. They performed at pep rallies, half-time shows, and at the opening of all home games, lending spirit and music to the cheering section.

elos

Elos Honor Society has changed its format this year to include JAM, an arts magazine featuring art work, poetry, stories by the members and information of artistic happenings in the area. Elos has also held a series of art workshops in an attempt to teach various art techniques to the student body. They ended the year with a satirical revue, utilizing all of the talents within the group.

National Honor Society had several outstanding activities this year. The Christmas season was highlighted with a caroling party. In spring, they sponsored a Battle of the Brains between the intellects of the junior and senior classes. Then, in late spring, they held their annual frisbee contest. All around, it was a very scholarly year.

During the 1971-72 school year the major activity of the Science Honor Society has been a water study conducted on Donaldson Run. Members have been investigating the amount of pollutants added to it by a nearby sewer and several small streams. The money to buy chemicals for the study was raised by selling pizzas, and through a grant received from the Virginia Junior Academy of Sciences. This allowed the society to start the tests early in January. Hopefully, the information compiled will help bring about some action to stop this constant water pollution that is a growing problem.

beta

Beta made some money this year — through the Homecoming Dance and bakesales. And they gave lots of money — to UNICEF, the March of Dimes, Epilepsy Foundation, Childrens' Hospital and the Free Clinic. School projects and work with handicapped children were continued. After a year full of trial and tribulations Beta members look forward to a summer at the beach.

bible club

The Bible Club continued to fulfill its motto this year "To know Him and to make Him known." Its main objective was to help its members to better understand God's word and be able to apply it to everyday problems.

communications corps

Presiding over the WLHS airwaves this year were the four gentlemen and one gentlewoman of the Communications Corps. In addition to presenting the morning and afternoon PA announcements, they brought a little "music to wake up by" each morning before homeroom. Students in the corps not only provided devoted service to the school, but also gained valuable practice in public speaking.

delta

Delta Service Club, although a small club, has really been busy this year. They decorated for Homecoming, helped collect clothes for needy children in Appalachia, and worked with the National March of Dimes drive. Delta has worked hard, but they still found time to have fun, too.

debate team

Under the direction of a new coach, Dr. Alex Costea, the debate team had its most successful season in years. Both the varsity affirmative and negative teams won the Potomac District championship, and participated in the state tournament. Debaters also participated in many tournaments on the east coast, including University of Pennsylvania, Georgetown University, George Washington University, and University of Richmond festivals, against teams from all across the nation. As a result, the debaters added several more pieces of gold and silver to the W-L trophy cases.

distributive education

The D.E. Club has shown some outstanding accomplishments this year. They gave a beautiful Christmas party for a group of underprivileged children. The selling of Christmas candles helped them finance projects. They were the hosting school for the District contests, and were very well represented in the contests. Club members spent an exciting weekend in New York and to wrap up the year, all D.E. members joined for the Employees Banquet.

kappa

Kappa has served the school in many ways throughout the year — stapling student handbooks, ushering at sophomore orientation and Christmas Choir concert. The girls continued their tradition of the Hall of Fame and the senior Birthday Calender. They supported these activities with bake sales and a car wash. After a long year of service they will be rewarding themselves with a trip to Ocean City.

national beta

National Beta Service Club tried to serve both the school and the community this year. In the fall they helped with Homecoming, at Christmas they decorated the cafeteria, and in the spring they sponsored the Charity Ball, proceeds of which go to a charity and at which time Miss W-L is chosen. Throughout the year they delighted the student body with delicious bake sales. They collected for various charities (ALSAC, UNICEF, March of Dimes), and hope to send a child to camp this summer.

pep club

It is very hard these days to generate any spirit in a high school. However, a few girls have managed to show the athletes they care through decorating lockers, houses, and gymnasiums. Many of the projects failed, but if they made one person happy, then they were well worth any efforts put forth.

"Mad Dog" Mann tries for two points against Wakefield.

Jim Barbe prepares to take a shot.

Co-Captain Bob Greenlieff dribbles past a Yorktown defender.

Frank Evans attempts a shot between two opponents.

1971-1972 started out being a successful campaign for the Generals. The first four games were played at W-L, and the team record before the Christmas vacation was 3-1. The New Year, however, brought bad tidings as the team lost the next four in a row. The team's overall record was six wins and thirteen losses, with all their wins coming at home. Despite their poor record, the Generals played some fine ball against some very tough area teams, including their last game against a very talented Williams club. Their aggressive play in that game should carry on to next year, since several key juniors are returning.

Co-Captain Oscar Laurel looks to pass.

Larry Murray concentrates on making his foul-shot.

Coach Morris Levin gives important instructions to his players during a time-out.

Angel Rivero drives hard as he is close to pinning his opponent.

A strong finish earns Eric Norby a pin against his Williams foe.

Andre Valdes fights to break a strong hold.

Willie Stuart brings his man to his knees.

Co-Captain Wally Frankland foils his opponent's attempt to escape.

Ruben Gonzalez fights for position.

Henry Rivero tries to force his opponent over on his back.

Frank Wagner strongly holds down his man.

Stewart Wegner moves quickly to gain control.

Co-Captain Vern Pond rides his man on his way to another victory.

Alan Cogswell has his man staring at the rafters as the referee watches for a fall.

Chuck Mason contemplates his next move.

Stuart Blue rides his Wakefield opponent.

Eric Stickney drives his man hard against the mat.

Alan Posey clearly has the advantage as his opponent struggles to get free.

gymnastics

Blair Standridge holds his position on the high bar.

George Cloyed performs on the parallel bars.

The gymnasts run through their routines in preparation for a meet.

Jon Johnson's good form reflects his many hours of hard work.

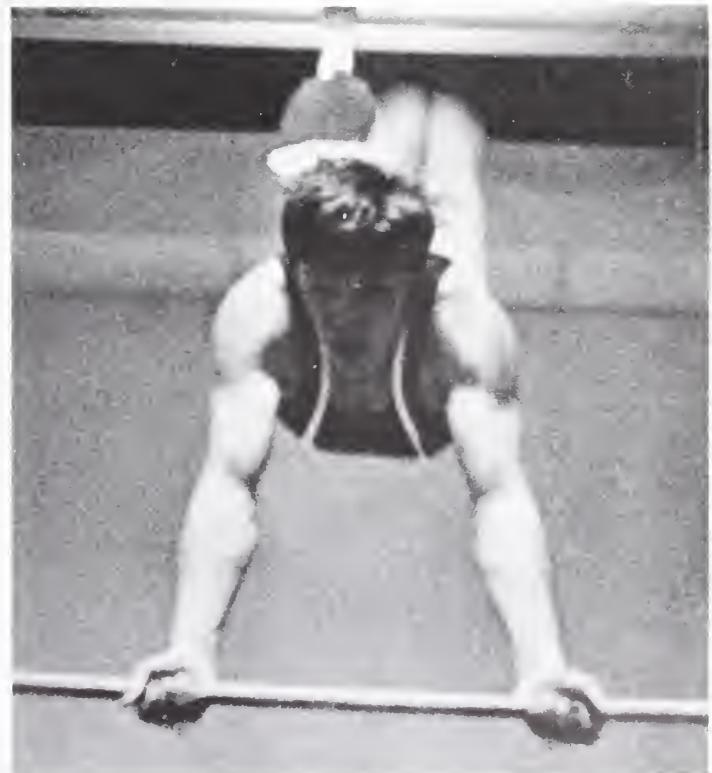

Coach Richard Mitchell's '72 squad has performed on the level of excellence which makes gymnastics one of the most fascinating sports to witness. The team has several experienced gymnasts, led by captain Philippe Sterlin. However, the majority of the gymnasts are underclassmen, gaining their experience this year. Through steady practice and determination this year's squad is challenging the record made by W-L's 1971 state champions.

Mike Norman tumbles through warm-ups.

Kevin Kapitan — the swinger.

Lane (Manager), W. Gregg, H. Thomas, L. Murray, J. Barbe, D. Grillo, G. McInturff, J. Bethel, S. Reed. Coach Del Norwood.

Dave Savold throws from the outfield.

Jim Barbe puts everything into his fast ball.

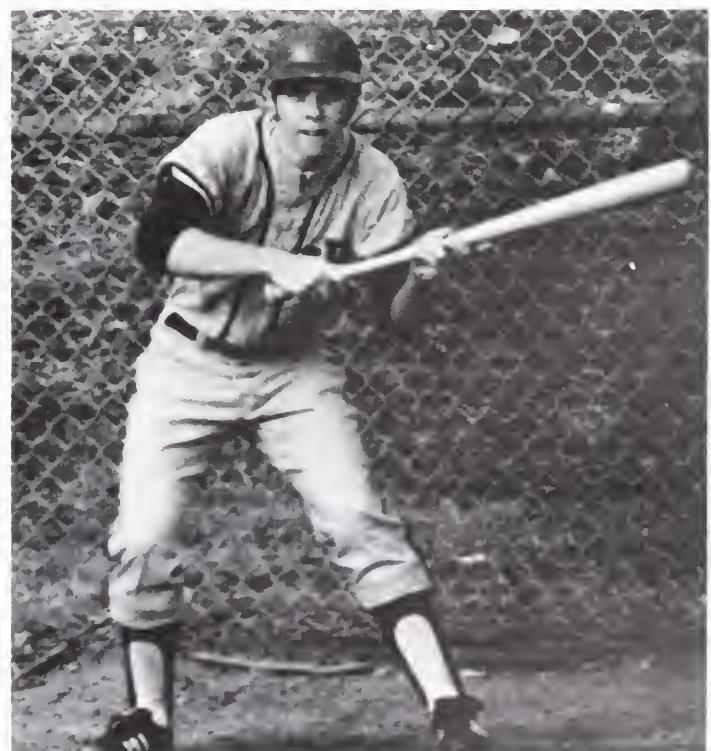

Catcher Terry Cook waits for a good pitch.

Lester Mitchell studies the ball.

Coach Norwood and Ron Clatterbuck watch the action.

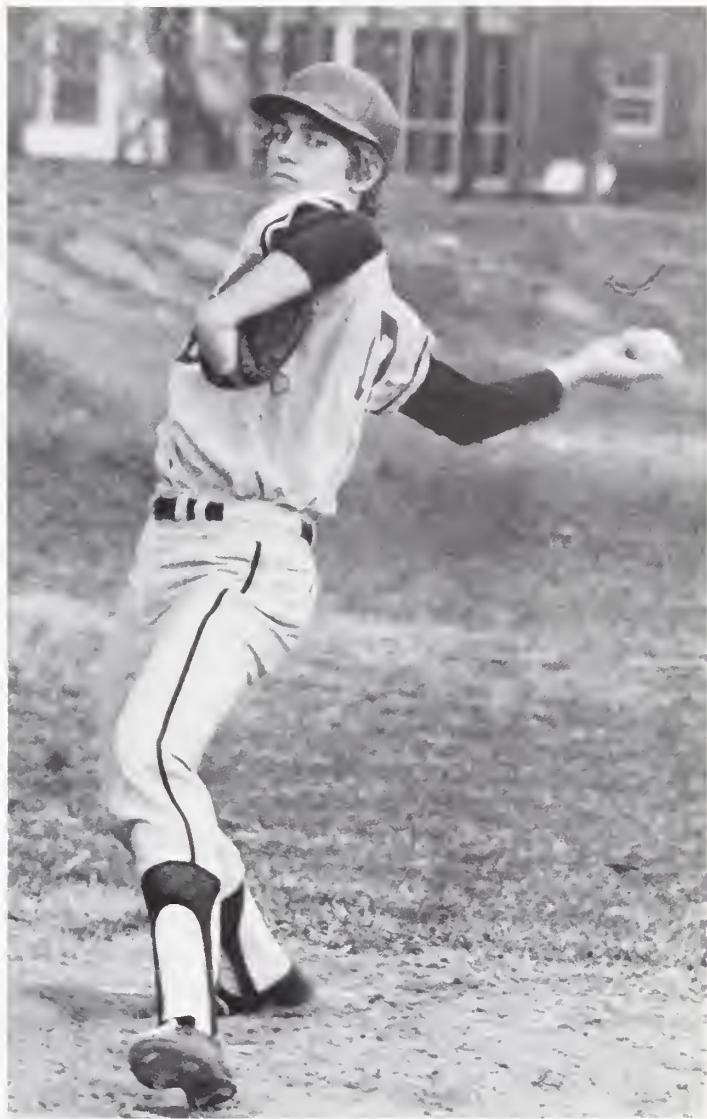

Tom Kinert lays down a perfect bunt.

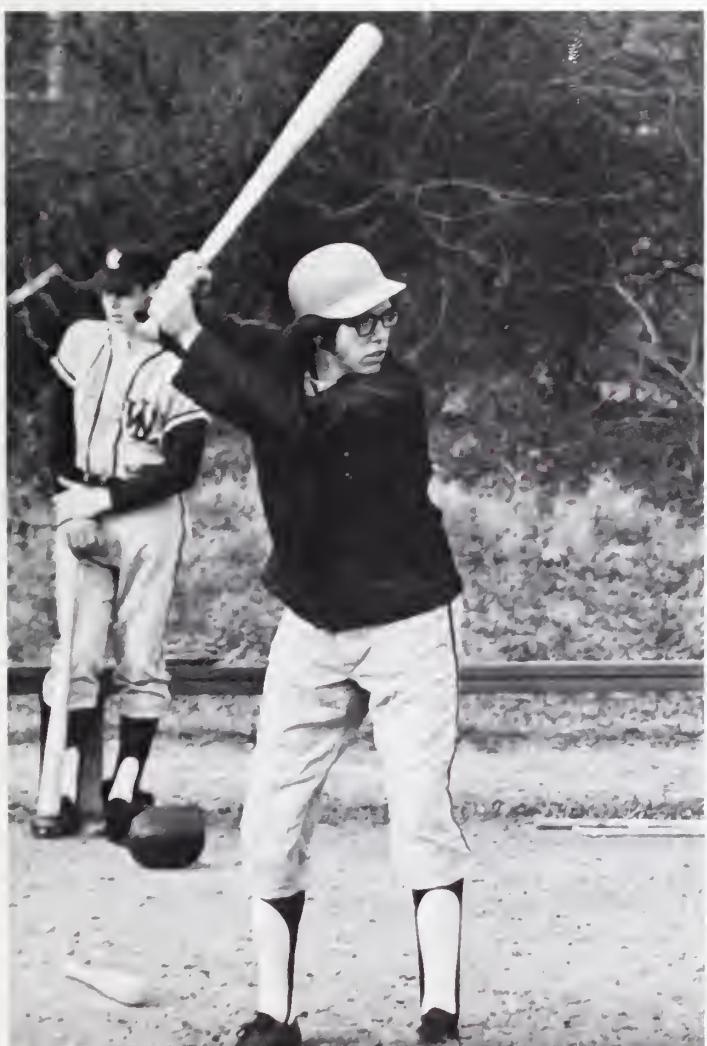

The W-L baseball team should prove to be one of the most versatile teams of the area in 1972. Under the knowledgeable direction of Coach Del Norwood, they are capable of finishing very high in the standings. The team has the powerful hitters needed to push across the winning runs. Larry Murray, who led the team in hitting during his sophomore year, is back for his third year, as is Gary McInturff. McInturff, Harry Thomas, and transfer Jimmy Barbe anchor a very sound pitching staff which could be the best in Northern Virginia. Baseball is the last varsity sport in which W-L will participate as a member of the Potomac District. Hopefully, the last endeavor will be the best.

Infielder Vern Pond connects.

Gary McInturff concentrates on his hitting.

Harry Thomas loosens up for practice.

A ground ball is scooped up by Larry Murray.

ARE YOU READY? Before the start of the rowing season comes the long, tedious hours of practice, the running on the canal, the panting up and down the Georgetown steps, and the countless miles on the river, not forgetting the pull-ups, push-ups and leg-drives.

READY ALL . . . As the races near, the crews peak their strength and conditioning and put on finishing touches as they strive for perfection in their rowing techniques. The week's practice ends with intense competition for positions that a few will get, but all will be ready for . . .

ROW!! The day of the big race is here. The oarsmen are tense and nervous on the starting line. All the hours of preparation are behind them now and the thrill and excitement of competition overtakes them. As the spectators line the dock at the Boathouse, the boats take off in a steady pace towards the finish. Muscles flex, legs strain, and bodies pull to push the boat forward. The coxswains' voices are the only sounds as the boat crosses the line, and the tension climaxes.
